

1489.99.1 (6)

LIBERALITY of SENTIMENT!

BILL of RIGHTS BATTALION.

AT a meeting of part of said Battalion, at Ballymoney, on the 24th December, 1783, the following resolutions having been unanimously agreed to, received the approbation of the remainder of the Battalion, at Ballycastle, on the 26th December:

Resolved, That the present crisis of the nation, united to the voice of our duty as freemen, dictate to us, and we are determined to pursue, such a line of conduct, as, founded in truth, animated by firmness, and guided by moderation, is the most likely expedient to stem the torrent of corruption at home, and resist usurpation from abroad.

Resolved, That as public men and public measures, ought always to be open to animadversion and candid discussion, so the approbation of either has reciprocally a happy tendency to awe the profligate, and embolden the virtuous.

Resolved therefore, That the following address be presented from this Battalion, by a Deputation thereof under arms, to the Earl of Bristol, Lord Bishop of Derry, for his truly laudable exertions in favour of the Rights of Mankind, and of a Parliamentary Reform.

*To the Right Hon. the EARL of BRISTOL,
Lord Bishop of DERRY.*

The Address of the BILL of RIGHTS BATTALION.

MY LORD,

HAVING with the eye of silent approbation viewed your conduct in every stage of its progress, at the Grand National Convention of Volunteer Delegates, we are impelled by those generous sentiments that actuate the breasts of Irishmen, to offer your Lordship this address, as a mark of our esteem and gratitude.

Ingratitude, my Lord, is not of Irish origin, though some of Hibernia's detested sons, Mammon's bond slaves, now basely spurn the parent, by whose fostering hand they rose.

We see with indignation and concern, the treatment which the wise, spirited, and salutary resolutions of the Volunteer Convention have received. But, we trust, the virtuous efforts of a united people, under the auspices of your Lordship and your respectable Colleagues, will yet cleanse the Augean stable, the stalls of Venality and Corruption, the effluvia of noisome and putrid Boroughs.

The gloomy clouds of SUPERSTITION and BIGOTRY, those engines of disunion, being fled the realm, the interests of Ireland can no longer suffer by a diversity of religious persuasions.—All are united in the pursuit of one great object—the extermination of corruption from our constitution; nor can your Lordship and your virtuous Coadjutors, in promoting civil and religious liberty, be destitute of the stable aid of all professions.

Permit us to assure you, that as Freemen, Freeholders, and Volunteers, our exertions to effectuate the grand work of Reform already begun, shall be as strenuous as the aim is important.—And that we are, with unfeigned gratitude and respect, your Lordship's most faithful friends,

Signed by order of the Battalion,

JOHN ORR, Secretary.

In consequence of the above resolutions, a Deputation from the Battalion, consisting of eighty rank and file, headed by their Lieutenant Colonel, waited on his Lordship the 14th instant, at Downhill, and presented their address under arms, to which his Lordship was pleased to give the subsequent reply:

GENTLEMEN,

WHEN you acknowledged the services of your fellow citizens in the County of Antrim in the late struggle for liberty, you rewarded their toils in that coin most valuable to virtuous men: And your approbation of their efforts, in some measure, consoled them for want of success.

But when you step forth from your own county to hail the individual of another, unknown to you but by his honest endeavours, and unconnected, except by that kindred spirit which seems now at length to pervade the whole mass of citizens, and like a Promethean fire, to animate an hitherto-lifeless lump, the satisfaction excited in his mind, by the applauses of men, who have a right to approve what they dare to support, can be known only to those who are conscious of deserving what they are fortunate enough to receive.

Where the conscience of a patriot bears testimony to the truth of the panegyric, and the sincerity of the panegyrist's praises cease to be adulation, they then become the wholesome food of a manly mind, and nourish that virtue they were at first intended only to approve.

But, Gentlemen, THOSE WHO DARE ASSERT THEIR OWN RIGHTS, SHOULD RISE ABOVE THE MEAN POLICY OF VIOLATING THOSE OF OTHERS.

There is in this island a class of citizens EQUALLY RESPECTABLE, and INFINITELY MORE NUMEROUS than those who have hitherto oppressed them:—

Men, who have long crouched under the iron rod of their oppressors, not from any daftardly insensibility to their shackles, not from any unmanly indifference to the unalienable rights of men, but from a PIOUS DREAD OF WOUNDING OUR COMMON COUNTRY THROUGH THE SIDES OF ITS TYRANTS:—

Men, in whose hearts beat at this instant as high a pulse for Liberty, and through whose veins pours a tide of as pure blood, and as noble too, as any that animates the proudest citizen in Ireland:—

Men, whose ancestors at the hazard of their property, and with the loss of their lives, obtained the First Great Bill of Rights, and upon which every other must be founded—The Magna Charta of Ireland:—

Men, whose ancestors in the midst of ignorance, could discriminate between the duties of a religionist, and the rights of a citizen; and who enacted those elementary and never-obsolete statutes of Premunire, which for centuries have been an irrefragable monument of their sagacity in distinguishing, and their fortitude in severing their duty to the Church of Rome from their dependence on its court:—

Men, the undegenerate progeny of such virtuous ancestors, who with a firmness worthy of our imitation, and still more worthy of our gratitude, have endured those very outrages from their country, which their forefathers spurned at from its sovereign; and who under a SERIES OF ACCUMULATED WRONGS which would heighten the disgrace of human policy, if they could be paralleled in its annals, have, with a fortitude as unexampled as their oppression, allowed every thing dear to the human heart to be wrecked—except their religion and their patriotism—except their acquiescence to the will of an inscrutable God, and their affection to a mistaken and deluded country.

But, Gentlemen, the hour is now come—When sound policy, as well as irresistible justice, will compel those who demand their own rights, to support their claim by a restitution of those of their fellow citizens:—

When Ireland must necessarily avail herself of her whole internal force to ward off foreign encroachments, or once more acquiesce under those encroachments, the better to exercise anew the tyranny of a part of the community over the dearest and unalienable rights of other.

For, one million of divided Protestants can never, in the scale of human government, be a counterpoise against two millions of united Catholics. But, gentlemen, of the Bill of Rights Battalion, I appeal to yourselves, and SUMMON YOU TO CONSISTENCY. TYRANNY IS NOT GOVERNMENT, AND ALLEGIANCE IS DUE ONLY TO PROTECTION.

BRISTOL.

LIBERALITY of SENTIMENT!

...in some instances, consisted of the following:

But when you step forth from your own country to hail the individual of another, unknown to you but by his honest citizenship, and nationhood, woven by that kindred faith which forms now as length to divide the whole mass of citizens, and like a thread to bind, to unite an heterogeneousity, the transition exacted in his mind, by the application of men, who have a right to approve what they dare to support, can be known only to those who are conscious of believing what they are fortunate enough to receive.

[illegible]

WEAK POINT OF VIOLATING THOSE OF OTHERS.
THEIR OWN RIGHTS. SHOULD RISE ABOVE THE BIG GAMBIT, THOSE WHO DATE ABOUT

There is in this island a class of Chinese known as "coolies," and infinitely more numerous than those who have hitherto been mentioned.

[illegible]

1. The subject of the report is the "The History of the United States of America" by Howard Chandler Christy. The report is a detailed analysis of the book, covering its content, style, and significance. The report is written in a clear and concise manner, and it provides a comprehensive overview of the book's themes and arguments. The report is a valuable resource for anyone interested in the history of the United States, and it is a well-written and informative work.

1. The first part of the report is a general statement of the purpose of the study. This is followed by a brief review of the literature on the subject. The next section is a description of the methods used in the study. This is followed by a presentation of the results of the study. The final section is a discussion of the results and their implications.

upon his court :—
 photo-copy of the Charter of Rights from their own
 custody in handwriting ;
 copies from an original in possession of their
 and now obsolete fixtures of furniture, which for the right of a citizen ; and who disclaimers between the two, the latter, and the plan, who's attention is mainly directed to the 15

 Then, the well-governed treasury of such virtuous rulers, who with a hundred worthy citizens maintain all more worthy of our credit, have added to very good, as from the south, with their friends found at home in the forests, and who under a low accumulation of riches would have the luxury of a house-keeper, if they could be its rivals, have, with a hundred as un-their opposition, allowed, that there is a part to be wished—these are the delivered—these are the
 in the world, and their attention to a a country.

But, gentlemen, the law is now coming down upon you, as well as upon the nation, with compelling force. It demands that you should demand that your own rights, to support their claim, by testimony of their own citizens.

When Ireland had peacefully availed herself of which Ireland took no word of foreign conquest, and of war were assembled under those extraordinary better to exert, and the tyranny of a pair of commonly over the bare and unalienable rights of man.

CHARGE IS NOT ONLY TO PROTECT THE RIGHTS OF THE GOVERNMENT, BUT TO SUMMON YOU TO OBEYANCE. FIRST, BILL OF RIGHTS. SECOND, I appeal to you, as you are the only one who can save the nation from a scale of human suffering, as a consequence of the million of divided Protestants in a year, in a 1950

WILLIAM H. HIGHTS BATTALION.

At a meeting of part of said Battalion, at Dallas, Texas, on the 21st December, 1867, the following resolutions having been unanimously agreed to, received the approbation of the remainder of the Battalion, at Dallas, on the 23rd December:

It is the duty of our countrymen, and of our country, to be determined to build, in a line of conduct, as founded in truth, animated by fairness, and guided by moderation, is the most likely exponent of their true interests of corruption at home, and still more so abroad.

the virtuous. A happy tendency to awe the profligate, and embolden the timid, to the application of either has reciprocally a happy tendency to open to amendment and candid discussion, that as public men and public measures, ought always to be open to amendment and candid discussion.

Resolved therefore, That the following address be presented from this Battalion, by a Deputation thereof, under arms, to the Earl of Birkel, Lord Bishop of Exeter, for his civil and able exertions in favour of the Cause of Manning, and of a Parliamentary Reform.

To the Right Hon. the EARL of BRISTOL
 & Lord Bishop of DORSET.

THE ADDRESS OF THE BUREAU OF RECORDS

My Lord,
I have with the eye of silent observation seen you standing in every state of the world, in the Grand National Convention of Volunteers, Delegates, and
and in the presence of the most numerous assembly
that ever gathered in the hall of the Convention.
I have seen you in the midst of the storm and the calm, and in the midst of the storm and the calm.

now daily from the ground by whose towering hands
some of Illinois's best men, and some of the best men of the world, are raised to the heights of the universe, and thus are not of this earth, they

[illegible]

The gloomy clouds of ignorance and the dark, thick mists of superstition, being the cause of Ireland can no longer remain in the path of progress. — All the extermination of corruption our constitution; not can your Constitution, in promoting civil and be a source of reliable aid of all professions.

friends and respect, your friendship is important - and that we are with words of the form already begun, shall be as follows:
 and Voluntary, our exertions to afford the permit us to say that you, that a friend,

JOHN O. R. S. 2

In consequence of the above relations, a letter was sent from the Battalion, consisting of eight men, and headed by their Lieutenant Colonel, waiting on the 1st instant at Downhill, and giving them orders under arms, to which his Lordship's assistance was the subsequent reply.

[illegible]

2